

Kleindienst Disqualifies Himself From Watergate Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst today announced he has disqualified himself from participating in the administration's Watergate investigation because it involves people with whom "I have had personal and professional relationships."

Meanwhile, President Nixon's official counsel, John W. Dean III, responded to news reports implicating him in the affair, by saying he will not be made a scapegoat.

The Washington Post reported that Jeb S. Magruder, formerly the No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign, has told federal prosecutors that Dean and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell helped plan the Watergate bugging last year, and later arranged payoffs to buy silence from defendants in the case.

Mitchell told newsmen outside his New York City apartment this morning that the report was "nonsense."

Magruder himself was absent from his home and his office in the Commerce Department.

Dean, who has maintained a stony silence about past allegations linking him to the case, today took the unusual step of issuing a statement directly to the news media through his White House office. He bypassed press secretary Ronald Ziegler.

He said he wouldn't comment again in the future, but said he hopes people "will be careful in drawing any conclusions as to the guilt or involvement of any persons until all the facts are known and until each person has had an opportunity to testify."

"Finally, some may hope or think that I will become a scapegoat in the Watergate case. Anyone who believes this does not know me, know the true facts nor understand our system of justice."

Kleindienst said he withdrew from the Watergate probe last Sunday, the day he met with President Nixon and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen to discuss the case.

Kleindienst, who had served under Mitchell at the Justice Department, said he withdrew because he was advised Sunday "of information which relates to persons with whom I have had personal or professional relationships..."

Kleindienst did not elaborate.

The Washington Post reported today that Jeb S. Magruder, former No. 2 man in the Nixon campaign, had told federal prosecutors that John Mitchell and John W. Dean III approved and helped plan the Watergate wiretapping last year.

Kleindienst served under Mitchell at the Justice Department before Mitchell resigned as attorney general in order to head the President's re-election campaign. Magruder said Mitchell and Dean, who is President Nixon's official lawyer, arranged payoffs to defendants in the Watergate case to buy their silence, the Post reported.

Kleindienst said he withdrew from the case last Sunday because he was advised then "of information which relates to persons with whom I have had personal and professional relationships..."

Kleindienst, in a three-paragraph statement issued at the Justice Department, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen will take over full control of the administration's Watergate probe, reporting only to President Nixon.

Magruder was absent from his home in suburban Maryland this morning. His lawyer said late Wednesday night that he would testify voluntarily when called before a federal grand jury. The Post said that would be today.

Mitchell, a former U.S. attorney general and chief of President Nixon's re-election campaign, called the Post story "nonsense."

"This gets a little sillier as it goes along, doesn't it?" he said to a newsmen as he left his New York City apartment.

Dean, who is counsel to President Nixon, could not be reached.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said: "The White House is not prepared to react to a story based on sources. At a time when the rights of individuals would not be jeopardized by a comment, an appropriate comment will be made."

DeVan L. Shumway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, said he had no knowledge of the matter.

The Post quoted sources in the executive branch as saying Dean might soon resign from the White House staff, and that presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman might follow suit. The newspaper quoted sources as saying there is "no known evidence" linking Haldeman to criminal involvement in the Watergate affair.

The Post said it gained its account of Magruder's statements from three sources in the White House and in the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. Magruder had been second to Mitchell in the campaign hierarchy, and retained the No. 2 spot after Mitchell resigned in the wake of the Watergate raid last year.

Accident Scene

The damage to this bush and front porch, belonging to Dr. Joseph Rodewald, 809 East Broadway, was caused when a pickup truck driven by Bill Bryan, 61, 2316 West Fifth, veered out of control at 9:23 a.m. Thursday. Witnesses said they saw Bryan slump over on the steering wheel while driving east on Broadway, causing the truck to run out of control for about two blocks before stopping. Bryan was admitted to Bothwell Hospital suffering from head lacerations. He is in good condition.

Navy Minesweeping Operations Halted

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has halted minesweeping operations in North Vietnamese waters in an apparent attempt to force Hanoi to scale down Communist attacks in Cambodia and delivery of troop reinforcements and supplies to the Viet Cong in South Vietnam.

North Vietnam reported today that the Navy stopped its sweep operations two days ago without explanation and withdrew its ships and planes from the coastal areas where they had been working. Hanoi charged this violated the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

After the Hanoi announcement, Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said in a statement that the mine clearing activity was suspended because "of the failure of the other side to abide by the agreements and assurances of Paris." He spoke of "the other side's failure to respect the unilateral cease-fire declared by the government of Cambodia, and ... the continued flow of enemy supplies into South Vietnam."

The United States suspended the minesweeping operation once before, on Feb. 28, when there was a delay in the release of U. S. prisoners of war held by North Vietnam. The POWs were released four days later, and U. S. Navy planes went back to sweeping the waters at the entrance to Haiphong.

The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said the minesweeping stopped again Tuesday and the U.S. task force pulled out of the area.

It also claimed that in some two months of clearance operations, the Americans had exploded only three of the "tens of thousands" of mines U. S. planes planted in North Vietnamese waters last year.

Warning Issued To Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers today warned Hanoi that unless it lives up to the Vietnam cease-fire agreement the Nixon administration will drop its plans to provide economic assistance.

"Obviously, we have no intention of asking Congress for assistance to North Vietnam unless that peace agreement is fully implemented," Rogers told a foreign policy conference of business leaders.

The secretary said he realized it is "unrealistic to expect peaceful habits to come easily to an area engaged in warfare for so long."

But, he said, the United States "will use every method and diplomatic device to see to it that the January peace pact is carried out."

Rogers said that even with implementation of the agreement it would be difficult to get the aid idea through Congress. But, he said, he thinks Congress will "act responsibly in providing that assistance" to North Vietnam if the agreement is honored.

20 Pages—Ten Cents

Six Per Cent Inflation Boosts Economy Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pushed by 6 per cent inflation, the nation's economy increased 14.3 per cent at an annual rate from January through March, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the country's gross national product rose $40.6 billion from January through March to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.235 trillion.

The increase compares with a GNP advance in the fourth quarter of last year of $30.9 billion or 11 per cent at an annual rate.

The gross national product is the value of the nation's output of goods and services and is the broadest indication of the economy's performance.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, described the increase in inflation as extraordinary and said the size of the GNP growth "calls attention to the fact that we have a difficult transition ahead of us."

"Real output cannot go on rising at an annual rate of 8 per cent," he said. "There isn't enough labor or productive capacity to sustain that for very long."

Without the rate of inflation of 6 per cent, the real output during the first quarter was 7.9 per cent, compared with real growth of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1972.

But the rate of inflation of 6 per cent during the period was bad news for the economy. It was the biggest quarterly jump since the fourth quarter of 1970 when it was 6.3 per cent.

Revenue Program Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today proposed a $2.3-billion program of shared revenues to help cities, urban counties and the states finance community-aid program.

The proposal, if approved by Congress, would abolish the government's present system of grants to assist community development.

Under Nixon's proposal, funds would be allocated directly to local governments to permit development in accordance with local objectives and priorities without first getting approval from Washington.

By allocating funds according to formula on the basis of need, the administration said, many communities not reached under the present grant program would receive funds.

Secretary James T. Lynn of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said in sending the administration proposal to Congress, "the time has come to reduce federal control, red tape and reviews" of community development programs.

"This aid will have no strings attached as long as it is used for community development," Nixon said last month in announcing his special revenue sharing proposal.

"Your local leaders can go on spending it the way Washington was spending it if they like. But they would also be free to work out better plans without having to get Washington's approval," he continued.

Nixon said the measure is intended to replace what he called "inflexible and fragmented" categorical grant-in-aid programs such as Model Cities and urban renewal plus projects providing grants for water and sewer projects, demolition, neighborhood facilities and rehabilitation work.

The 14.3 per cent increase in the GNP equaled the increase in the first quarter of 1971 when the economy was recovering from a General Motors strike and from a recession.

The government economic goals for 1973 are for an increase of 10 per cent in the GNP, including 2½ per cent inflation, but the quarterly figure showed the rate of inflation was more than double the administration's goal.

Consumer expenditures accounted for a major portion of the first-quarter increase. They were up $28 billion in the first quarter, compared with $17.1 billion in the fourth quarter last year.

Purchases of durable goods increased $9.3 billion compared with the increase of $2.2 billion in the previous quarter, and purchases of autos and related equipment were up $4.8 billion.

New car sales reached 12.5 million units at an annual rate.

Other increases in the consumer category were nondurable goods, up $12.5 billion, compared with $8.4 billion in the fourth quarter; spending on food, up $6.2 billion; spending on clothing, up $3.5 billion and spending on services, up $6.2 billion.

The GNP report noted that an increase in after-tax personal income of $22.7 billion was less than the increase in consumer spending during the period.

As a result, it said, personal savings decreased from $62.8 billion in the fourth quarter to $56.9 billion in the first quarter and the savings rate fell from 7.6 per cent to 6.7 per cent. The savings rate is the percentage of disposable income put into checking accounts.

The corporate profits index, also issued by the Commerce Department today, showed that before-tax profits of corporations rose $5.8 billion in the fourth quarter of 1972. That represents a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $101.5 billion in corporate profits.

The preliminary figure issued a month ago was $101.9 billion.

The January-March increase in the GNP is considerably above the administration's

To Reassess County

Mayor Lists 3 Conditions Should City Share Expense

Mayor Jerry Jones Thursday outlined three "conditional" proposals, one of which he feels should be adopted by the Pettis County Court, if the city, helps finance any county reassessment.

Jones indicated he did not prefer one plan over another, but would like to see at least one implemented by the county in exchange for any city financial contribution to the reassessment effort.

The plans named by Jones are: a temporary end to the $4,800 fee the city pays the county for preparing its yearly tax books; assistance in funding a county-wide ambulance system; or assistance in subsidizing a privately-owned, but government-supervised, ambulance service.

Presiding Judge Harry Walch, informed Thursday of Jones' proposals, declined immediate comment but indicated he would probably discuss the matter soon with Jones.

Elaborating on the fee-removal proposal, Jones said, "Assuming the city would agree to pay half the cost of what I understand will be an approximately $160,000 venture, I would want to have the fee removed that we pay the county for compiling our tax books."

By dividing the $4,800 annual fee into the expected $80,000 the city would pay for the reassessment, Jones calculated the city could have its tax books compiled free-of-charge for about 16 years.

Regarding possible financial assistance by the county for a county-wide city-owned ambulance system or subsidizing a privately-owned one, Jones said that payment, in both instances, "would be set on some pre-determined equitable formula."

Jones has repeatedly stated that he expects the city to pay part of a county-wide reassessment. City Council members interviewed Wednesday and Thursday indicated that more "facts and figures" would have to be presented before a decision could be made.

Councilmen interviewed were Don Broadus, Jesse Robinson, Raymond Bales, Carl Franklin, Bob Wells, George Dugan Jr., and Lee Garrison. The issue has yet to be formally introduced and discussed at a council session.

Louis Harris Survey

No Stand on Abortion Issue

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the wake of a U.S. Supreme Court decision to allow legalized abortion up to three months of pregnancy, American public opinion has reversed itself and now favors legalized abortions by a 52-41 per cent margin. Back last August, the public opposed making abortions legal by 46-42 per cent, although last June people favored them by a narrow 48-43 per cent.

The crystallizing of public opinion following a decision by the high court or an act of Congress is not an unusual development. During the 1950's, narrow divisions on education, jobs, and housing rights for minorities turned into decisive majorities following the landmark decisions of the Warren Court. In 1971, when Congress passed the law giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in federal elections, a close to even division of public opinion turned into a clear majority for granting young people the vote.

Thus, when the Harris Survey recently asked a nationwide cross section of 1,500 households about the abortion issue, as it had twice in 1972, the clearest margin yet in favor of legalizing abortions emerged: "The U.S. Supreme Court recently decided that state laws which make it illegal for a woman to have an abortion up to three months of pregnancy are unconstitutional, and that the decision on whether a woman should have an abortion up to three months of pregnancy should be left to a woman and her doctor to decide. In general, do you favor or oppose the U.S. Supreme Court decision making abortions up to three months of pregnancy legal?"

Legalizing Abortions

	1973	Aug. '72	June '72
Favor	52	42	48
Oppose	41	46	43
Not sure	7	12	9

During the last presidential campaign, both President Nixon and Sen. McGovern opposed legalizing abortions, and apparently their combined opposition was able to shift public opinion against such a step. However, now with the high court decision, the pendulum has swung back toward the approval side by an 11-point margin.

The overall results, however, mask some sharp disagreements over the abortion issue which still run deep in American thinking. For example, Catholics are still opposed to legal abortions by a substantial 56-40 per cent margin. Back in August, Catholics opposed the practice by 55-36 per cent, indicating little shift in attitudes among this key group whose religious leaders strongly oppose legitimizing abortions.

In the latest survey, women just barely back leaving the abortion decision to the mother and her doctor by a narrow 48-45 per cent, while men favor it by a much wider 56-36 per cent. But last August women were opposed by a rather substantial 53-37 per cent count.

In every Harris Survey on the abortion issue, perhaps the sharpest difference has not been by religion or sex but rather by age. In August, young people favored legalizing abortions by 52-39 per cent, while those over 50 opposed such a move by 54-32 per cent. In the latest survey, the young are better than 2-to-1 in support of the Supreme Court decision, 63-31 per cent, but older people still are opposed by 49-44 per cent.

If the public is still divided by key segments on the abortion issue, even though a majority now back making it legal, the arguments pro and con on the issue are by no means all on one side either.

The most troubling argument for the public to overcome in condoning legalized abortions is the concept that an abortion is in effect "taking a human life," once the infant is conceived and the fetus is alive. On the other hand, the arguments in favor of the court decision are essentially pragmatic, running along the lines that women will have abortions whether legal or illegal and that it is better to have them performed safely than to risk the life of the mother. Basically, however, the safeguard of the mother consulting with a doctor, with a final decision arrived at from such discussion, appears to be the decisive argument now tipping the balance in favor of legalizing abortions.

Electric Car 'Motor'

Detroit inventor Robert Aronson plans to put his patented four-passenger electric car on the assembly line next fall in order to fill over 1,000 orders already on the books. Aronson feels that in 10 years, half the cars in the U.S. will run on electricity. His X-144 Electricar, at $3,950 sedan built with an American Motors Gremlin body and powered by his patented lead cobalt batteries, costs only one cent per mile to run. Since there are no emissions from the Electricar, widespread use of the vehicle in Los Angeles and New York and other smoggy cities could solve air pollution problems, Aronson contends.

The Executive Job Market Is Booming

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The executive job market is booming again, with perhaps 5,000 new openings a month in the $15,000 and up category, but a lot of applicants are writing themselves into the discard heap.

These otherwise accomplished executives haven't mastered the simple art of writing a resume that will give the facts clearly and concisely, says William Breitmayer, who scans thousands each month.

About 15 per cent of those received by Breitmayer, president of Executive Register, "are messy and illegible, are shoddy quality machine copies, or simply are so poorly written that even we can't make head or tail of them."

It's understandable, says Breitmayer, whose company computer processes the applications for its corporate clients, that an executive, like anyone else, would find it awkward to write about himself.

"When a successful person severs relations with a company it's like a divorce, even if he initiated the action. He feels on the defensive and he doesn't present his best. He finds it difficult to tell a straightforward story."

The same curious phenomenon has been observed elsewhere, too. When 40-plus clubs were formed in 1970 to help find jobs for idle executives aged 40 or more, it was found that resumes were one of the major obstacles.

It was discovered that men and women who were masters in dictating business letters to secretaries were helpless when it came to writing objective reports on their own careers, especially without a secretary's aid.

Since Breitmayer, whose headquarters are in New Canaan, Conn., with offices in New York and San Francisco, makes his living by supplying computerized data on executives to his corporate clients, he would just as soon not have to toss away several hundred resumes each month. And so he sets some guidelines:

—The first item should be a brief, personal sketch that gives the reader a feeling of knowing a little bit about you. Include date and place of birth, marital status, children, address, telephones, height, weight, health, foreign languages.

—The second item should be your educational background, with the names of each institution attended, majors studied, and the date each degree was awarded. These two items should use no more than one-third of the first page.

—Provide specific details on your career, starting with your present or most recent position and concentrating on the most recent 10 years.

List the name of the company, and the city and state where employed. Describe your responsibilities in each job clearly, showing the chain of command through which you reported as well as functions reported to you.

Figures on the size of the company and your part of it, including sales, numbers of units or people, will help give weight to your story. Give the specifics, but keep it brief and stick to the main points.

An employer is interested only in the "what" of your jobs, not in your own qualitative judgment of how well you did them. Try not to force your words. Be straightforward, and let the reader decide for himself.

—Speak for yourself. Resumes produced by resume writing firms fall into a set pattern which is recognized and downgraded by employers. Since you pay their bill, resume writers describe your virtues too extravagantly.

—Reproduce your resume professionally. Don't try to save money by typing your own resume or by using carbon copies or cheap machine reproductions. Have it typed professionally and reproduced on off-set.

Don't crowd the page but use enough white space so that it can be read easily and quickly. Underline titles and company names. Use short sentences and paragraphs.

Eagleton Blasts Cambodia Bombing

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said Wednesday the Cambodia bombing has "some of the earmarks" of the initial U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

At a news conference and in a speech on the Elyria campus of Lorain Community College, Eagleton attacked the Nixon Administration for the bombing, which he said "is without a legal or constitutional basis."

During the news conference at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport, Eagleton complained that the bombing has drawn little attention.

"I see no resolve in Congress to terminate the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia," Eagleton said. "I don't detect the will either in Congress or in the people at large."

Ann Landers

Folks Can Give Kids Inspiration

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old boy who plays on the high school basketball team. I wonder how many parents whose kids are involved in sports realize what it means to a player when his folks come to the games and cheer him on? It's a lot more fun when a kid knows his mom and dad are out there. It helps him do his best, too. I guess you might call it having somebody special to show off for.

A few of the guys on the team don't seem to have any folks. At least you wouldn't know it because they have never shown up for a game. I feel sorry for these guys but I would never say anything. My dad and mom come to see me play once in a while and when they do I always play a lot better.

Please print my letter but don't use my name because I don't want to hassle anybody. I know lots of guys I play with will secretly hope their parents will read it and take the hint. Thanks, Ann. You're right on. —A Cage Cat

Dear Ann: In any kind of sport, inspiration is just as important as perspiration. Thanks for putting it into words.

Dear Ann: I am 66 years old and was widowed two years ago. I am keeping company with a wonderful man who lost his dear wife three years ago. She was a lovely person and a good friend of mine.

I cannot bring myself to discuss something with him, even though it is driving me to distraction. I'm sure his dentures are to blame. He makes a clicking sound when he comes to words with a "T" and a hissing sound when he comes to words with an "S." Between the clicking and the hissing I often lose track of what he is saying. I'm sure others have noticed this because it's very obvious. I wonder why no one has mentioned it. Is this a permanent problem or can a dentist help him?

If you publish my letter I promise to call it to his attention and confess I wrote it. Please do us both a favor. Thanks, Ann. —Need Your Push

Dear Need: Here's the letter. Now hand it to him. If he has his dentures adjusted he might be able to get rid of the hiss and the click. Here's hoping.

Dear Ann Landers: I am stuck on the horns of a dilemma. Mom suggested that since I cannot decide (she refuses to get involved) that I write to Ann Landers. So — here I am.

Four months ago I was asked to be a bridesmaid. I was honored because no one had ever asked me to be in a wedding party before. The dresses the bride selected were sort of cute, but definitely bridesmaidly and not usable for any other occasion. My dress cost $55. I paid for it myself. The wedding was called off two weeks ago. Nothing was said about reimbursing us for the gowns. Three other girls were also stuck. Do you think this is fair? What should we do? —Fickle Pickle

Dear Pickle: I think you girls should be reimbursed for the dresses, but I doubt that you will be or you would have been so advised by now. It doesn't hurt to raise the question, however, and I suggest that you do so — by letter.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

No Agreement in Sight Between Airline, Union

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The third day of negotiations here between Ozark Air Lines and the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association concluded Wednesday with no apparent agreement in sight and union officials said a systemwide strike appears imminent.

Ron Wirts, vice president of AMFA Local 24 in St. Louis, said the union feels Ozark has finished negotiating and wants a strike. The union has no other recourse, he said, and will strike soon unless the airline changes its stance.

"Negotiations have not been fruitful," said Local 24 president Samuel Smith. "We're legal to strike any time and members from around the nation have met here and expressed a desire to strike."

The 560-member union which has been without a contract since March 31, 1972, is seeking a 5.5 per cent increase but the airlines has offered only a 2.7 per cent hike, Smith said. The top hourly wage for an Ozark mechanic is currently $6.02.

Charles Ehler, an Ozark spokesman, said the AMFA has stressed the 5.5 per cent figure, but if the union agreed to the company's offer, their members' salaries would match the highest mechanics' wages paid in the airline industry.

A spokesman for the union said the AMFA Strike Committee met Wednesday night, but he refused to give any details of possible strike action. Ninety per cent of the union's members authorized a walkout last summer.

"The company has been taking a hard line with us," he said. "We've been 13 months without a contract. That's a long time."

Wirts indicated a strike would be aimed at paralyzing Ozark during the Easter rush. "When we can hurt the company the most, that's when you can expect it," he said.

U.S. Team Trains For MIA Search

BANGKOK (AP) — A team of men representing the U.S. Navy, Marines, Air Force and Army are training for one of the grimmest—and possibly the longest—jobs of the Vietnam War.

In the dry terms of an official release, their job is to "look for persons missing in action and remains not recovered."

The organization is known as the Joint Casualty Resolution Center—JCRC.

Its headquarters are at Nakorn Phanom in northeast Thailand. About 75 of the total 150 men involved in the search for downed U.S. airmen and ground troops missing in action are already at the base.

The U.S. Military Assistance Command Thailand—MAC-THAI—said the search will be done by field teams composed of an officer, radio operator, a medic, an explosive expert and an interpreter.

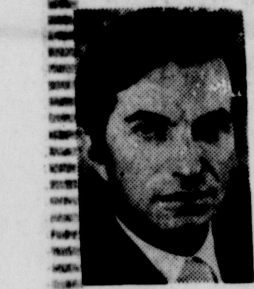

All will have special training in jungle survival techniques.

Once a crash site or grave is located, other teams called crash site investigators and experts from the Central Identification Laboratory—CIL—will be flown to the scene.

CIL, made up of military and civilian specialists mainly from the former U.S. Army Mortuary in Saigon, will inspect the site and have the remains flown to the U.S. army camp at Samae San in Thailand.

At Samae San, all medical and dental records of American missing in Southeast Asia are on file.

Once the remains are identified they will be shipped back to the United States. So far, the JCRC has not been able to get off the ground, although it was formed in January. Permission to fly into Laos, Cambodia, North Vietnam and Viet Cong held areas of South Vietnam has yet to be obtained.

Good Isometrics Can Be Helpful

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing to ask your opinion about isometric exercise. I use isometrics every day along with weights and I would like to know if you think isometrics are dangerous. I read an article that said they could damage the heart. Also, do you think isometrics will build up the muscles or are they a farce?

Dear Reader — Strictly speaking, an isometric exercise means an exercise effort which doesn't change the size or length of the muscles, in other words, tensing the muscles in a fixed position. This is in contradistinction to isotonic exercise which involves movement or the lengthening and shortening of a muscle.

Push-ups, most gymnastic exercises, calisthenics, running, and other activities are isotonic whereas simple muscle tensing in one position is isometric.

Muscle tensing can set off reflex action which causes a sharp rise in the blood pressure. This is true even if it is merely the hand that is squeezed very hard. In a few sensitive individuals this can cause some extra or skipped beats of the heart but in healthy people this is probably not an important consideration.

The rise in blood pressure is strictly a reflex response and in young, healthy people I don't consider this harmful or dangerous. Individuals who already have problems should see their doctor before embarking on a serious isometric program.

Isometric exercises done properly and consistently will help to develop muscle strength. There have been overenthusiastic claims for isometric exercises. You will have to do more than a 60-second tensing once a day to develop muscle strength from isometrics. One group of enthusiasts reported that this would be sufficient for an enormous increase in a relatively short length of time. I'm sorry to say that these reports have not been confirmed by serious investigators.

While isometric exercises are useful and do help develop muscle strength, don't expect miracles with a minimal effort. The best way to build muscles is by muscular work which can be weightlifting, isotonic exercises, or in combination with isometric exercises over a period of time. The muscle has to work to stimulate growth.

The problem with isometrics for most healthy people is that they do not work enough muscles to require delivery of a lot of oxygen and thereby do not work the heart, circulation, and lungs. Running exercises, jogging, playing tennis, swimming, and a host of other forms of physical activity not only develop the muscles and their full range of motion, but they also help build up the capacity of the heart, lungs, and circulation.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Does the term "partially hydrogenated," in reference to various kinds of so-called polyunsaturated fats, have the same meaning as "partially hardened" or is there a difference?

Dear Reader — Most saturated fats, with the exception of coconut oil and a few others, are relatively hard, or solid, at room temperature. Adding hydrogen to a polyunsaturated fat actually saturates it and makes it a solid, or hard fat. Thus, hydrogenated and partially hardened is the same thing.

Farmer Upset by Statement

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — "I thought what he said was unfair and I got mad," explains Kansas farmer M. P. Reeve about taking an advertisement in the Detroit News to reply to remarks by Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

Reeve said he heard that Woodcock, in a recent national television appearance, said the ad cost him "a whole bunch... around $600."

The 52-year-old Reeve, who quit the practice of veterinary medicine 13 years ago to become a "farmer, rancher and cattle feeder," operates a spread of about 6,000 acres on Kansas' western high plains.

He said, "Our products are not as high as their products (the autoworkers). Our products are not out of line."

Japan are paying much more for meat and other farm products and would be pleased to pay the prices your members are paying.

"Maybe we should buy our machines from people who appreciate American agriculture."

Reeve, a 1943 graduate of Kansas State University with a degree in veterinary medicine, said the ad cost him "a whole bunch... around $600."

Reeve said high meat prices are due mostly because of the severe winter. "The death rate for cattle is at least double what it is normally," he said. But that doesn't mean Reeve is complaining. "The livestock market it the last, free, open market left. There are no controls nor subsidies. And ranchers want to keep it that way... win, lose or draw."

"I'm just an independent cat-tleman," he said. "And I want to stay that way."

Four Persons Die In Traffic Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least four persons were killed in traffic accidents in Missouri Wednesday.

Karl Alexander Little, 20, Spokane, Wash., and his wife, Judith Little, 19, were killed when their car and a tractor trailer truck collided on U.S. 61 about a mile south of Steele.

Clarence E. Kratz, 81, Shelton, Mo., died when his station wagon went out of control and overturned on U.S. 71 about two miles north of Lamar.

Jerry Paul Fletcher, 37, Bridgeton, Mo., was killed when his tractor trailer truck blew a front tire, went out of control and overturned on Interstate 70 near Concordia.

Norwegian exports to the United States increased 17 per cent in 1972 over the previous year.

House Rejects Fund Use
On Mass Transit Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today rejected, 215 to 190, a Senate-passed amendment that would have permitted cities to spend their share of federal highway trust funds for mass transit projects.

The vote was subject to final approval of a $25.6-billion highway bill to which the amendment for the authority was proposed.

Highway supporters, including Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, contended the action would bankrupt the highway trust fund. He said the fund does not have enough money for both highways and mass transit.

"You can't make two quarts of gin in a one-quart jar," Harsha said. "There just isn't enough money in the highway trust fund."

But mass transit backers including Rep. Edward Boland, D-Mass., stressed cities would have only the option of using their own share of highway money for mass transit if they chose.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., quoted President Nixon as telling congressional leaders Wednesday that the role of the automobile must be re-examined if the nation is to solve its energy crisis.

Mass transit forces enlisted governors and mayors across the country as well as one of President Nixon's top aides in a lobbying drive for the vote and claimed before they lost that they thought they were going to win.

"It's going to be a squeaker," said Republican floor leader John B. Anderson of Illinois. "But I think we have the votes."

He said Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar contacted members to urge their votes for the plan and that mayors, environmentalists and other groups across the country were asked to wire congressmen and seek their backing.

Lincoln Man
Bound Over
For His Trial

A 65-year-old rural Lincoln man was bound over for trial to Pettis County Circuit Court Thursday on a charge of issuing a no funds check of $100. Two other persons also were arraigned before acting Magistrate Court Judge Allen Parish Thursday.

Bound over to Circuit Court after a preliminary hearing was James Paul Youngblood. He allegedly issued a bogus check of $100 to the Sedalia police department Dec. 5 last year. The check was payment for a traffic fine, the charge states.

Youngblood was arrested by Pettis County sheriff's officers in February. He is free on $1,000 bond.

April 30 was set as the preliminary hearing date for Karen L. Laws, 17, 802 East Ninth, charged with forgery; and Edward N. Newbill Jr., 28, 435 West Saline, charged with exhibiting a dangerous weapon. Both were formally charged Thursday.

Newbill allegedly displayed a handgun near the Main Street Bar early Sunday and threatened four persons. Miss Laws allegedly issued a forged check for $27 Monday to Hoffman Hardware, 305 South Ohio.

Newbill is free on $5,000 bond. Miss Laws remains in the Pettis County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Anderson said a late head-count Wednesday indicated a 215-190 House lineup for today's vote on permitting cities to use their $700 million in highway money for mass transit. He listed 20 members as undecided.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., called the Nixon-backed, Senate-passed option "sucker bait," contending the President would give cities no other mass transit money if they could use the highway money.

"Think," Wright told the House. "Think before you fall for that Department of Transportation sucker bait."

Wright was floor manager of a $25.6-billion federal highway authorization bill to which the amendment for optional use of the $700 million-a-year city highway money was proposed.

The bill would authorize an additional $8 billion for the 42,500-mile interstate highway system and extend the deadline for its completion three years to June 30, 1979.

The rest is for other federal highways and such related programs as highway safety over the next three years—plus extension of the $1 billion-a-year federal mass transportation act for three years.

Congress appropriates the authorized money in separate bills.

And that, Anderson said, is why mass transit proponents want the $700-million highway option now in addition to continuation of the regular mass transit money.

"The Wright bill holds out only a promise of $3 billion," he said. "No one knows how much will be appropriated. No one knows how much may be impounded. The $700 million is right there where you can use it."

Law Expert
Scheduled
To Testify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An international law expert is scheduled to testify at the Pentagon papers trial today, after the government raised the issue of possible U.S. "war crimes" while questioning codefendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Richard Falk, a Princeton University professor of international law, is expected to expand at the request of the defense on Ellsberg's comment that illegal actions by U.S. officials occurred during the Vietnam war.

Ellsberg's assertion came Wednesday when Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nissen, thumbing through transcripts of Ellsberg's public speeches, asked if the defendant hadn't accused U.S. officials of conspiring to commit war crimes.

"I'm not a lawyer, Mr. Nissen," Ellsberg replied. "But as I read the law, I believe there were illegal actions, some of which, I regret to say, I participated in myself, without asking myself what they were."

Ellsberg stressed repeatedly that his understanding of the principles of international law are those of a layman. Defense attorneys, who had planned to rest their case after Ellsberg left the witness stand, changed their minds and decided to summon Falk for an expert's opinion.

Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, both former researchers on government projects for the Rand Corp., are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Bid Opening Will Include Road Work
In Saline County

(Democrat-Capital Service)

JEFFERSON CITY — Highway projects in Saline County are included among those for which the Missouri State Highway Commission will open bids here Wednesday. The Commission will consider bids on 23 improvement projects that will cost about $17.2 million, it was reported.

The Saline County primary road work includes: Route 240 — The first of two projects calling for general excavating, constructing culverts, a bridge and one 24-foot concrete pavement on 2.7 miles from Highway 65 east to the east city limits of Marshall.

The second project involves grading, general excavating, constructing culverts, bridges, one 24-foot concrete pavement and a partial 24-foot asphaltic concrete resurfacing and widening job on three miles from the east city limits of Marshall east to Highway 41. Combination bids on these projects will be required.

Secondary road work includes: Route O—Grading, constructing culverts and one 24-foot concrete pavement on 0.5 miles from Highway 240 south to Porter St. in Marshall.

Respond To Fire
At School Building

All 393 students of Mark Twain School, Second and Grand, were evacuated from the building at 2:13 p.m. Wednesday in response to the report of a fire in the building.

According to fire department reports, the fire was contained entirely within a trash can found in a closet. A fire department spokesman told The Democrat-Capital the blaze appeared to have been set deliberately.

One pump bucket was used to extinguish the fire. All city trucks answered the call.

Claude Cooper, 408 North Prospect, reported Thursday morning that a window glass and screen at his home, valued at $50, was destroyed sometime Wednesday or early Thursday.

Sterling Robinson, 436 West Saline, reported someone took $80 in cash from him while he was asleep at the Main Street Bar, 206 East Main, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wednesday, according to police reports.

Increase

goal of 10 per cent for the entire year and the rate of inflation is more than double the 1973 goal of 2.5 per cent.

The quarterly figures show that the economy's output increased a record $40 billion during the period. If maintained at this level, the country's total output for the year would be $1.234 trillion.

One factor contributing to the big increase was a sharp rise in consumer spending which makes two thirds of the GNP. The administration originally had projected a $35 billion increase in GNP for the quarter.

The percentage increase for the first quarter is not itself a record. There was a 14.3 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1971 and a 14.7 per cent advance in early 1951.

The consumer price index, a measure of retail price trends, will be released Friday and that also is expected to show a sharp increase, especially because the March wholesale price index advanced 2.2 per cent, the highest rate since the Korean war.

Gasoline
Shortages
Being Felt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three service stations in upstate New York are open for repair work, but they won't sell you any gasoline. In Florida, a chain of 11 stations limits sales to 10 gallons per customer.

Independent service station operators are feeling the pinch of the nationwide gasoline shortage. Unable to get enough to meet motorists' demands, some are rationing gas, some are closing.

For the motorist, the shortage means higher gasoline prices. The Oil Daily's weekly survey of 100 cities last week showed the average price for major brand regular gasoline was 26 cents a gallon before taxes. The year before it was 22½ cents.

The shortage has been attributed to a number of factors, including a shortage of refineries and the general energy crisis — refineries that were forced to concentrate on winter heating fuels instead of gasoline.

The independent station operators — and bulk purchasers such as cities and trucking firms — are hardest hit because they are frequently unable to find bidders for bulk purchase contracts.

The Georgia Independent Oilmen's Association estimated Wednesday that more than 100 of the state's 1,800 independent stations will close this weekend for a lack of fuel.

Detroit officials say the city may have to pay as much as $1 million more because they can't make adequate bulk purchases. In Texas, two trucking firms have filed separate suits, against Texaco and against Shell, over bulk purchase contracts.

The 11 Sears, Roebuck gas stations in southern Florida and Montgomery Ward in Baltimore have limited customers to 10-gallon purchases.

Livestock
Warning
Is Given

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A warning to livestock producers to watch out for symptoms of tetany in their cattle was issued Wednesday by Taylor H. Woods, state veterinarian.

Woods said this year's heavy spring rains have created lush pastures for the grazing animals and ideal conditions for tetany.

Tetany is a metabolic condition and not a disease. It causes animals to exhibit symptoms of staggers, slobbers, and causes them to have wild eyes and convulsions. The animal may die within 15 to 30 minutes while others may live long enough to be treated but may not respond.

It is caused by new, wet grass. Anything which causes strain on the animal such as calving, weather and feed changes may bring about the condition, Woods said.

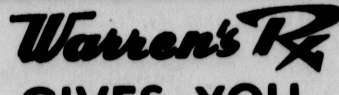

During the period of feed change and lush pastures, Woods said, livestock producers should check their animals at least twice a day and include magnesium oxide in their diet.

Yard Is Damaged

A one-car accident late last week resulted in damage to a tree, several shrubs and hedges belonging to George Miller, 3003 Southwest Blvd.

According to police records, the accident occurred when a vehicle driven by Otis D. McNew, 1820 East Ninth, veered out of control and traveled across Miller's front lawn. Miller's yard was also damaged by the vehicle.

No citations were issued in connection with the incident, police said.

Where Did Christ Die?

By HAL McCLURE
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Where did Christ die?

The rambling Crusader Church of the Holy Sepulchre deep inside the Old City's walls is revered by millions as the site of Calvary.

But a growing number of Christians also believe Jesus was crucified and entombed in a garden area a quarter of a mile to the north.

Christian pilgrims by the thousands will pray at both the church and the Garden Tomb this Easter Week.

The Garden Tomb has been winning more supporters because of its location — well outside Old Jerusalem's thick Turkish walls.

For the Scriptures are clear that Jesus was crucified outside the city. St. John continues:

"Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new tomb where no one had been laid . . . as the tomb was close at hand, they laid Jesus there."

"The Garden Tomb fits this Bible description," says the warden, the Rev. Jan W. Van der Hoeven, a 33-year-old Dutch churchman with wide experience in the Middle East.

The entire Garden Tomb concept appears to flaunt the 1,600-year-old Church of the Holy Sepulchre tradition.

But it wasn't until the end of the last century that the Garden Tomb idea began to take hold, thanks to a campaign launched by British Gen. Charles Gordon, who visited Jerusalem en route home from his Chinese campaigns.

Gordon was convinced that 60-foot-high hill just north of Damascus Gate was the true Calvary. Two hollows in the face of the hill made it look like a skull — Golgotha, he said.

He began a campaign that eventually led to the establishment of the London-based, nondenominational Garden Tomb Association, which has jurisdiction over the site.

The Tomb, a two-room cave, is surrounded by a lush and well-tended garden, filled with well-manicured shrubs, flowers and tall shade trees — described by one Easter visitor as a "true oasis of tranquility in bustling Arab Jerusalem."

So far archaeologists and biblical scholars have made little progress establishing the true location of the crucifixion.

The main unanswered question:

Were the sites marked by the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in or outside the walls?

The shrine is now inside the walls built in the 16th century by Suleiman the Magnificent. But the spot actually was outside the Roman walls during Christ's time, Church supporters say.

Feed Price Support Bill Sent to House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the House on Wednesday a bill to maintain price support guarantees for various feed grain producers cooperating in the government set-aside program.

The bill was introduced by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Dick Clark, D-Iowa, who said the Agriculture Department revised the program after farmers already had elected one of two options.

Humphrey told the Senate the bill would eliminate discrimination against cooperators who chose the option of setting aside no acreage and receive 15 cents a bushel payment.

A Free Press Protects Your Free Speech...

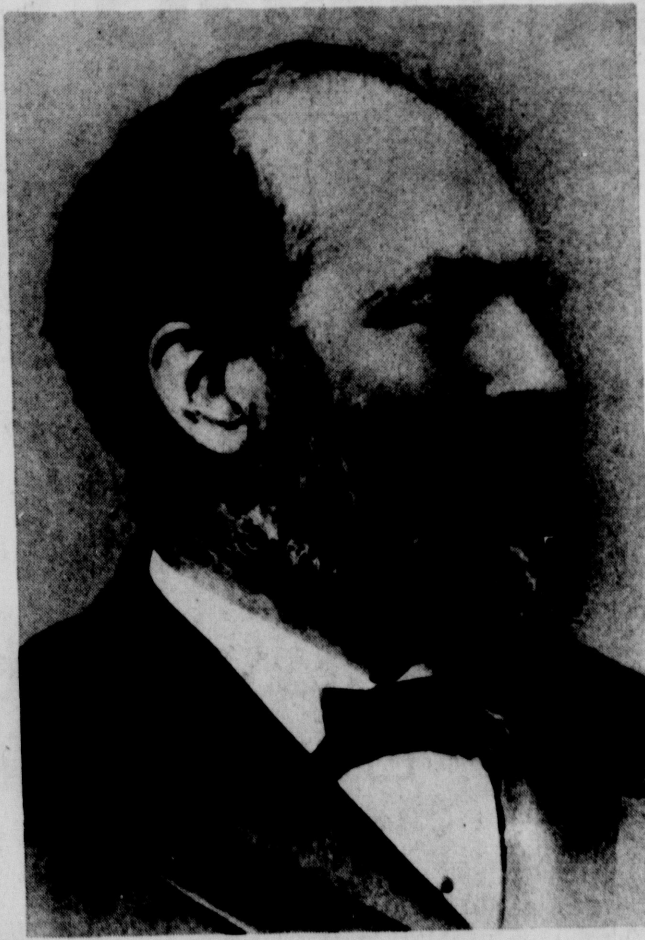

Judges are jailing reporters with increasing frequency, because they refuse to reveal news sources. The result can only be a drying up of these sources of information and impede your right to know what's happening in your government.

Free speech and a free press are guaranteed by the Constitution to the people generally — not to any individual or business.

Everyone also has the right to know what's being offered in the Marketplace. The right of choice in all goods and services keeps the system of competition working for everyone's progress.

Consequently, when our freedom of the press is restricted, your free speech is also restricted.

Your free speech depends on a free press.

Here's What

James A. Garfield

20th President of The United States

said about the importance of a Free Press:

"Not for its own sake alone, but for the sake of society and good government, the press should be free. Publicity is the strong bond which unites the people and their government. Authority should do no act that will not bear the light."

Here's What

Abraham Lincoln

16th President of The United States

said about the importance of a Free Press:

"Let the people know the facts, and the country will be safe."

The next time you get mad at a news story, remember that a free press provides you with the information that keeps our country free.

This public service advertisement is published by The Sedalia Democrat and The Sedalia Capital in the interest of better public understanding of the meaning and intent of press freedom.

Heirloom Items Make Bracelet

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — One day I was looking over some old mementos and among them were some heirloom earrings, membership pins, lodge insignia, etc., so I gathered them all together and took them to a jeweler who made a meaningful charm bracelet out of the lot. He put my "charms" on a chain I had so I would wear the bracelet firmly attached with a clasp and my keepsakes are safe at all times. — MRS. J.M.C.

DEAR GIRLS — I did somewhat the same thing and my "charms" are on my father's gold watch chain with the original clasp serving as the fastener. Rings also can be attached with tiny gold clasps. I have included my mother's gold wedding band and a gold crest ring on the chain. Such pieces too often are tucked away in drawers and eventually become misplaced. How much better it is to make something that can be worn and enjoyed. My smaller grandchildren never tire of having me tell them, piece by piece, to whom each originally belonged and what it is. — POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — A member of our family is allergic to dust. I wonder if some of the readers who have had similar problems would give me some decorating tips to keep dust to a minimum but still have the house looking comfortable and attractive. I do not want our house to have the look of an institution if this can be avoided. — MRS. J.P.R.

DEAR POLLY — One of my Pet Peeves is with pantyhose made with seams at the toes so they slip and form a ridge that is uncomfortable under the toes. Also, why can't they plainly indicate which is the front and which is the back so we do not have to spend time deciding which is fore and which is aft. Many such hose made for ample figures have a definite light ridge where hose meet panties and this is also uncomfortable. I wonder if there really is a brand made that is comfortable for a 5 foot 8 woman who weighs 175 pounds. — MRS. G. B.

That Democrat-Capital newspaper carriers pay for their papers each Saturday. If they do not collect from each subscriber, they must wait until they receive payment to make their full profit. If a subscriber continues to receive the Democrat or Capital beyond the last payday, the newspaper carrier is paying for the paper and trusting the subscriber. Only by prompt payment may newspaper carriers realize their full profit each week, since each carrier pays for your paper each week—whether he collects from you or not.

The city subscription rate is 60 cents per week. Any subscriber who does not want to pay each week may pay the carrier in advance for as many weeks as the subscriber wishes.

Prepare for Convention

chairman, and Mrs. Stanley Fisher, club president. A program of sacred music open to the public will be held at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at First Christian Church and convention activities will close following a Friday noon business session.

Represent Sedalia At State Meeting

Four officers of the Sedalia branch of the American Association of University Women attended the April 13 through 15 state AAUW convention at Kirksville. Representing the Sedalia group were Mrs. Russell Rhoads, president; Mrs. Luther Jordon, president-elect; Mrs. Larry Smithson, first vice president-elect; and Mrs. John Mothersbaugh, secretary-elect.

Dr. Linda Hartsock, AAUW program development chairman, presented the topics for the next biennium which are Woman — Search for Self; Dynamic Learning—Releasing Human Potential; Media — Issues in Communication; Global Interdependence — Budgeting for Earth.

A public service project "Femme Fest" was adopted by the Missouri division to promote a positive image of women working through the arts. Women, 18 years and older, will be encouraged to enter festivals for both professional and non-professional artists.

"Enthusiastic support has been promised by the professionals already contacted including the Missouri State Council on the Arts, the educational TV station KETC and women writers for major newspapers," Mrs. Rhoads said.

Mrs. Rhoads addressed the opening session of the convention speaking on the positive image of women working through AAUW and she accepted the state's official banner created by the Hannibal branch to be displayed at the national convention in June.

A review of the local branch's community projects was given by Mrs. Jordon at the president's breakfast.

Meeting Planned

Plans for an upcoming spring district meeting of the fourth district, Missouri Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs, were announced by Mrs. Ruth Lindsey at the Tuesday meeting of the Pettis County group at Missouri State Bank.

The April 28th district meeting will consist of a business session and luncheon at Millstone Lodge in Gravois Mills with the Morganettes as hosts.

Plans for the 40th anniversary celebration of the local club were also discussed. Guest speaker for the May 15 event at Smith-Cotton cafeteria will be national committee woman Mrs. Jean Briscoe from New London.

State Fair Community College students, Gary Gill and Mrs. Linda Swaim gave a program on young people's involvement in politics following the business session and Mrs. Swaim chaired a white donkey sale which followed the meeting.

Mary E. Cain, daughter of Mrs. Cline Cain, 805 West Broadway, and Martha May Corson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil L. Corson, 814 Wilkerson, have been admitted to the teacher education program at Southwest Missouri State University.

Admission into the education program is based upon the students' academic achievement, recommendations from the professors and indications of teaching qualities.

John Charles Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Gray, Jr., 1022 West Seventh, received the Superior Cadet Award and the Westminster College Presidential Medal at the annual ROTC Awards Ceremony and Review held recently at Westminster College in Fulton.

Glenn C. Knight, Marshall, and Thomas J. Browne, LaMonte, were selected for new Graduate Student Awards at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

They will each receive a letter of commendation and a $50 check. They were selected on the basis of recommendations from department chairmen and divisional deans.

Ed Hodges was the featured soloist at the Family Night Concert held Saturday at the Gano Hall of William Jewell College, Liberty.

A junior music major, he is the grandson of Mrs. A. B. Wild, 1304 West Fifth, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodges, formerly of Sedalia.

He presented a piano solo of "Concerto in A Minor," Movement 1, by Edvard Grieg.

James Mark Callis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Callis, Route 2, was recently initiated into the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

James is a freshman at Westminster College, Fulton, and a 1972 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School.

SOMETIMES IT SNOWS

NEW YORK (AP) — The sun never set on "Sesame Street" during the first two years of the television program for children. But this year things are different. In an attempt to make the experimental educational series more realistic, night and rainy weather scenes have been added and, for the first time, seasonal changes occur. It even snowed in one sequence.

Board Refuses To Make Public Minutes of Meeting

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo. (AP) — The board of directors of the state poultry experiment station here has refused to make public minutes of its last meeting concerning the dismissals of the station director and two researchers.

The board president said Wednesday the last meeting was open to the public, that the board traditionally does not make minutes public until they have been approved at the next meeting, and that he was assured there is nothing illegal about it.

Charles Rohde of Aurora, president of the nonsalaried, six-member board, also acknowledged that Charles McElvye, director of the station for 11 years, had been dismissed, in part because he suggested to legislators that the station be assigned to the University of Missouri when the executive branch of state government is reorganized.

The station, which does research on eggs, chickens and turkeys, had been funded through higher education money. The bipartisan board reports directly to the governor.

Rohde said the board wanted the station in the proposed Department of Higher Education as a separate entity. The Missouri House and Senate reorganization bills now under study place the station under jurisdiction of the University of Missouri, abolishing the board.

The board, on March 29, asked for McElvye's resignation for "insubordination and deceit," Rohde said, and he said that McElvye's comments to legislators was "the last straw." Other reasons were not given.

Newspaper stories last Friday said that McElvye had been fired and reported that the board refused to allow a reporter to see the minutes of an April 3 meeting at which the dismissals of McElvye and two researchers were discussed.

Rohde said the board traditionally has not made minutes public until the next meeting, and that they would be made public May 1. The March 29 and April 3 meetings were open to the public although no public announcement of upcoming meetings are made, Rohde said.

"We were assured by the governor's office that our position is perfectly legal and logical," Rohde said. "We don't have anything to hide."

Under Missouri law, the board can have closed meetings, but the open records law says that "except as otherwise provided by law all states, county and municipal records kept pursuant to statute or ordinance shall at reasonable times be open for inspection by any citizen of Missouri, and those in charge of the records shall not refuse the privilege to any citizen."

A reporter for a Springfield paper has been investigating the board's firing of McElvye and two veterinarians, Richard LaFavers and Don Rollins, who have been performing autopsies on chickens. The paper reported the two had an argument with Rohde at the April 3 meeting.

LaFavers said Ray Hargrave, assistant director who replaced McElvye, called him shortly after McElvye's firing and informed him the station would "no longer need our services and that we were being dismissed because the state did not have enough funds to pay us."

Rollins and LaFavers received $5,200 a year for their work. The station spent $232,000 this fiscal year and the governor has recommended $199,250 for the next fiscal year, $135,000 less than what the board requested. The cuts include a proposed turkey experiment station and a reduction of a half dozen employees.

McElvye, who earned $12,000 a year, said he never gave the impression to the legislature that the board wanted to go under control of the University of Missouri.

"We had proof that he lobbied in Jefferson City against what we wanted and completely disregarded the wishes of the board," Rohde told the Daily News.

Every legislator that Rohde named as having mentioned McElvye's alleged statements denied making such statements to the Poultry Board members, the Springfield Daily News said.

Although Gov. Christopher S. Bond will have an opportunity to replace Republican John Peterson of Mountain Grove and

W. D. Johns, a Democrat from Neosho, as board members when their terms expire later this month, a spokesman for his office said no appointments would be made "until we have looked into this problem."

Other members of the Poultry Board are Carl Thomas, a Mountain Grove Democrat, W. R. Messingbrink, a Cabool Democrat, and Dr. C. W. Turner, a Columbia Republican.

Rohde, a Republican, was first appointed by the late Gov. James T. Blair Jr. and has been reappointed every three years. His current term expires in April of 1975.

Insistence on Silence Gave Way to Compromise

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's insistence on broad authority for executive silence began at the Watergate's edge—but gave way to compromise amid a tide of congressional and political protest.

His decision to permit testimony by his aides in the Senate's Watergate investigation averts what could have been a constitutional showdown on the doctrine of executive privilege. But that issue hasn't gone away. And there remain disputes over warming powers and presidential authority to undo programs enacted by Congress.

All three involve what the Constitution says and what it means. As lawyer, candidate and President, Nixon has pronounced himself dedicated to a strict interpretation of the Constitution. He set that as his test for Supreme Court nominees.

The current controversies between Congress and the White House hinge on who does the interpreting. Presidential authority in the areas of executive privilege, undeclared war and the impoundment of appropriated funds involves powers that are implied, not spelled out, in the Constitution.

Before he became President, Nixon criticized the Supreme Court for decisions he said moved it into lawmaking areas that really belonged to Congress.

"... Under our Constitution, the true responsibility for writing the law is with Congress," he said on July 7, 1968. "The responsibility for executing the law is with the executive and the responsibility for interpreting the law resides in the Supreme Court. I believe in a strict interpretation of the Supreme Court's functions."

Nixon critics contend now that his actions are blurring those lines of constitutional authority.

Executive privilege is a doctrine—not a law—under which presidents have refused to permit congressional testimony by their aides.

Earlier in the Watergate controversy, Nixon expanded upon it to declare that past and present members of his staff would decline to appear before formal sessions of congressional committees. The administration said it could be invoked to cover any executive branch employee if the President decided silence was in order.

In yielding to permit appearances, but not necessarily answers to all questions, in the Watergate investigation, Nixon said he was making an exception, not dropping his rule.

Pressure and protests from leading figures in his own Republican party preceded the shift by a President who once had challenged the Senate to a Supreme Court test on the issue.

It could flare again another, lesser controversy, for the White House has cited executive privilege in refusing to give Congress records of government-financed travel during the 1972 presidential campaign. The war powers controversy arose time and again during the Vietnam conflict, and it has been revived by new U.S. bombing in Cambodia and Laos.

Nixon critics contend he has no legal or constitutional authority for the bombing, and there is a move underway in the Senate to ban it unless Congress specifically approves.

The administration has claimed authority for Indochina actions in the President's constitutional role as commander in chief.

"The administration's constitutional authority to bomb Cambodia rests on the circumstance that we are coming out of a 10-year period of conflict," said Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson. "This is the windup."

That has been challenged in Congress. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., contended that any new action in Indochina is in effect a new war, requiring approval of Congress.

Legislation now pending, and opposed by the administration, would define and limit executive authority to use U.S. troops abroad in any future conflict.

In the third area of disputed prerogatives, the administration has been challenged in court for refusing to spend money on some programs despite laws creating and financing them. Twice, in cases involving impounded highway aid funds and the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, federal judges have ruled that the administration acted illegally.

Either case could wind up in the Supreme Court. And legislation in the Senate would empower Congress to overrule the President whenever he seeks to impound appropriated funds. Nixon has withheld at least $8.7 billion voted by Congress.

Accused Slayer Did Not Know Victims

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — "I didn't know any of them," Larry DeLoon Casey said after he was charged with killing three persons and wounding two others during a shooting spree in a southwest Houston residential area. Two of the dead were children.

"I didn't really believe I had killed anybody. I didn't realize what I was doing at the time," the 21-year-old man told newsmen after his arrest Wednesday.

Police said Casey signed a statement admitting he drove a car through the Willowbend addition Wednesday firing a .22 rifle. He also admitted he killed a drive-in food store clerk during a $70 robbery last Feb. 21, officers said.

The dead in Wednesday's shooting included Beulah K. Davis, 86; Jana Whatley, 10; and Claire Jakubowski, 5.

Casey was charged with three counts of murder and two of assault to murder in Wednesday's shootings and with murder and robbery by firearms in the earlier slaying.

Casey blamed Wednesday's shootings on a fight with his girl friend, a quantity of beer and marijuana and the murder of his father.

He told officers his father, Theron, a chemical controller working out of Newark, N.J., was robbed and killed in New York City in June 1970. He said the elder Casey was killed by two heroin addicts, and "ever since then I had a real grudge."

4-H Club Work Is Outlined By Speaker

Bob Heitmeyer, area youth specialist for the University of Missouri Extension Service, was guest speaker at the Noon-Day Optimist Club meeting Tuesday at Bothwell Hotel.

Heitmeyer, who was introduced by John Banion, gave a slide presentation and talk concerning 4-H Club work. He also showed slides of the Extension work conducted last summer, headquartered at the public housing units here.

It was announced that Wylie Hausam, sponsored by the local club, won first place in the Zone 9 speech contest recently in Marshall.

Bicycle safety week and an accompanying parade were postponed due to bad weather, it was reported.

Don Broadus, president, presided at the meeting.

Flood Control Officials Not Alarmed by Forecasts

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Revised river forecasts that put the Missouri a foot higher than expected and delayed the crest of the Mississippi did not alarm flood control officials Wednesday, since the new crests will still be well below levels reached during the extreme flooding last month.

The National Weather Service said the rain-swollen Missouri will now crest at 32 feet Saturday at St. Charles, where flood stage is 25 feet. The crest on the Mississippi was pushed back to Sunday, but remained at 35 feet, five feet above flood stage.

Both rivers continued to rise Wednesday toward the new crests with the Missouri standing at 30.8 feet at St. Charles and the Mississippi at 34.1 feet at St. Louis.

Since the rivers reversed their downward trends and began rising again last weekend, the Army Corps of Engineers has resumed maintenance work on eroded levees at West Alton, Mo., where a break in a levee last month sent up to seven feet of water sweeping through the small town.

Volunteers were also watching for ground seepage in the levees protecting Chouteau and Kaskaskia Islands on the Mississippi above and below St. Louis.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH Securely
Do false teeth embarrass you by coming loose when you eat, laugh or talk? A denture adhesive can help. FASTEETH gives dentures a longer, firmer, steadier hold. Makes eating more enjoyable. For more security and comfort, use FASTEETH Denture Adhesive Powder. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly.

Sales Tax Protest

George Rand, 63, Green Bay, Wisc., went on a hunger strike in his store window over the Wisconsin sales tax. Rand said his store was closed March 31 for not paying $557 in back taxes. A large part of his business was selling candy at 12 cents or less, on which he could not collect a sales tax. The state, however, assessed the 4 per cent tax on the basis of overall sales. Rand contends that is unfair taxation and will sit in the window until he starves or gets some help to have the tax removed.

Opponents Marshal Forces To Cut Off Funds

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-time opponents of the Vietnam war are marshaling forces for a Senate vote in May on cutting off funds for continued U.S. bombing in Cambodia and Laos.

A bill by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., would deny spending for any U.S. military operations in Indochina and U.S. aid to North Vietnam unless Congress specifically approves.

They plan to offer the legislation as an amendment to the annual State Department authorization bill pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The committee is to hear from Secretary of State William P. Rogers on April 30 and act on the bill shortly thereafter. The committee has approved end-of-the-war amendments frequently in the past.

Case and Church, in a letter seeking the support of other senators, said their bill "is neither pro-war nor antiwar, hawkish nor dovish."

"It is our sole purpose to make sure that this question is passed upon by Congress," they said.

With increasing frequency, senators have challenged the President's constitutional grounds for ordering renewed bombing in Cambodia and Laos.

Defense Secretary Elliot Richardson and other administration spokesmen say the military activity is within the President's authority as commander-in-chief to enforce the Vietnam cease-fire agreements.

Case and Church said that with American troops withdrawn from Indochina, "any reinvolvement of our military forces constitutes a new war—something that should not be undertaken except by the considered and prior decision of Congress."

Engineer To Marry Pen Pal

By WILLIAM R. RUMBLER
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "I've told myself at times that this is crazy and that I can't go through with it, but I will," says Ron Word.

The 26-year-old production engineer leaves May 3 for the Philippines to marry a pen pal he has never met.

Word has been exchanging letters and recording tapes with 20-year-old Grace Darlene Torralba for 18 months. They also have exchanged photographs of each other, but attempts to make connections by telephone have failed.

"About last December we found we cared for each other more than friendship," Word said of his fiancée, a medical student at the Nagaview campus of Philippine Union College. Her hometown is Legazpi, a small community on the main island of Luzon.

"Never having met is kind of foolish," Word said, adding that at first he was uncertain about the marriage plans.

However, he said his conviction was strengthened by the responses of his parents and friends.

Word said his parents "were surprised, but surprisingly happy. My mother is worried about the cost (for travel) but that was the only objection."

Word "met" his future wife through a pen pal advertisement. He described their relationship as "very compatible." He said he admires her intellectual development, her beliefs "and her over-all attitude. She has a curiosity about everything, a desire for knowledge."

He described himself as having the same traits.

Permits For Buildings Up Over Last Year

The number of city building permits issued for the first three months of the year, 73, is 26 more than the 47 permits issued during the same three-month span in 1972, according to a quarterly report presented to the City Council Monday night by City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison.

The increase in permits was accompanied by a corresponding hike in the total amount of fees collected ($2,693) and in the total estimated cost ($1,579,227) of construction. During the first three months of 1972, these figures stood at $349 and $316,663, respectively.

Broken down, the quarterly report figures revealed that, in January, 13 building permits were issued, $129 in fees were collected and $105,517 in construction work was approved. In February, 24 permits were issued, $1,743 in fees was collected and $703,250 in construction work was approved. For March, the figures stood at 36 building permits issued, $821 in fees collected, and $770,460 in estimated construction work approved.

Weather 'thieves' a real possibility

International crises of the future may be set off by "environmental aggression," warns Maurice S. Strong, head of the United Nations' recently established Environmental Program.

Rainmaking by seeding clouds with silver iodide is already feasible, he says, making it possible for one country knowingly to "steal" another country's rainfall, causing drought.

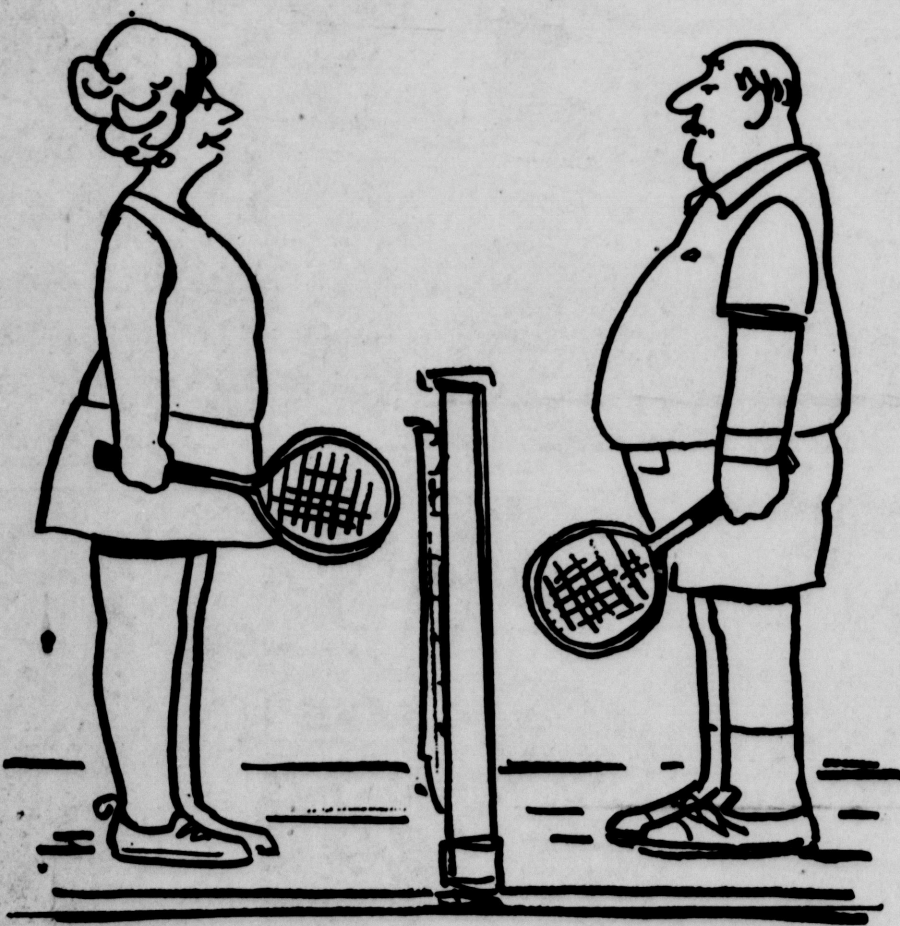

Predicting that "in 10 or 15 years environmental aggression will be a major source of political conflict," Strong urges that international rules and regulations be drawn up now to control experiments in modifying weather and climate.

No one with any acquaintance with history will believe that men will shrink from using the new science of weather modification to the disadvantage of their neighbors.

But while you can "steal" rainfall, you can hardly stash it in the national treasury. It has to fall somewhere, and chances are it will fall on your own head in amounts greater than you care to have.

In other words, the best defense against "environmental aggression" may be that, like nuclear aggression, it is likely to hurt the aggressor as much as the aggressee. (NEA)

"...REPRESENTATION WITHOUT TAXATION! NOW THERE'S A WORTHY GOAL."

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Secret grand jury testimony reveals that H. R. Haldeman, the White House major domo, ordered $350,000 in $20, $50 and $100 bills locked in a White House safe during the 1972 campaign.

After the election, the cash was delivered surreptitiously to a campaign aide, with Haldeman's approval, in an apparent violation of the new campaign disclosure law.

This is the sworn testimony of Haldeman's loyal former assistant, Gordon Strachan, who picked up the money the day before the disclosure law went into effect. He received it from Hugh Sloan, the campaign treasurer, but returned it to Fred LaRue, a campaign aide, at his Watergate apartment.

It took Strachan 45 minutes, he testified, to count all the cash. Yet no receipt was asked and none was given. He quoted LaRue as saying merely: "I'll take care of this."

The money was supposed to be used, explained Strachan, for polling. He acknowledged that the President's campaign committee was already conducting "a very, very extensive polling operation." Yet $350,000 was taken away from the committee and stashed in the White House, he said, "in case we needed to get even more polling."

"Who told you to go to Mr. LaRue and give him the money?" asked Seymour Glanzer, an assistant U.S. attorney.

"I decided that myself," said Strachan.

"Did you discuss this incident with anybody afterwards?" pressed Glanzer.

"Yes, I told Mr. Haldeman afterwards that I had given the money to Mr. LaRue."

"What did he say to you?"

"Fine," Strachan quoted Haldeman as saying.

"Does the... Committee to Re-Elect the President conduct its business in Mr. LaRue's apartment?" demanded the prosecutor.

"No," said Strachan. "It was a matter of courtesy. He's a senior official. He asked me to drop it by after work..."

"Do you have any idea why Mr. LaRue asked you to return this money to his apartment, where actually you could just walk across 17th Street?" asked the grand jury foreman.

"No, I do not," said the witness.

"I mean, I find it somewhat dangerous for a person to be carrying this amount of money in Washington in the evening..." said the foreman, "when it would have been much easier and handier just to walk across 17th Street."

"I agree and I was nervous doing it, but I did it," shrugged Strachan.

"Did it occur to you at the time," broke in another juror, "that it was not the proper way to do it?"

"Well, 'proper' is not—" stammered Strachan.

"Is 'proper' an obsolete word these days?" snapped the juror.

"No," said Strachan. "Whether it was proper or improper, I was asked to return the money. I returned the money and he asked me to deliver it to him at his home, and I did that."

The foreman seemed incredulous. "I'm still puzzled," he said. "You get the money from the treasurer or whatever Mr. Sloan's position was in the committee... and the money sits for seven months. Then Mr. Haldeman decides it has to go back to the committee. You call Mr. LaRue — you don't call Mr. Sloan and say, 'Hugh, seven months ago you gave me this $350,000 and we haven't used any of it; I'd like to give it back to you since I got it from you,' but you call Mr. LaRue."

First Strachan said it was because Sloan had left the committee. When asked why he didn't return it to his successor, he said: "I honestly don't know."

Then Glanzer resumed the questioning. "Have you talked to Mr. Haldeman in the last couple of weeks?" he asked.

"Yes, I have," replied Strachan.

"About your appearance before the grand jury?"

"Yes, I have."

"What did you say to him and what did he say to you?" pressed the prosecutor.

"He told me," replied Strachan, "to tell the absolute truth and to not worry about any political consequences. And those are my orders..."

"Is there any reason," demanded Glanzer, "why Mr. Haldeman would have to urge you to tell the truth?"

"No, there's no reason," said Strachan, "except it's a matter of real concern, the political damage that has resulted from this."

The handsome Strachan had one final word about Haldeman. "He's a man," said Strachan, "I admire very much."

Pennsylvania's Presque Isle, which in French means "almost an island," was named by French explorers in 1740 because Lake Erie storms regularly threatened to wash away the narrow neck linking the sandy peninsula to the mainland.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The earth is slightly flattened at the poles, which gives it the shape of an oblate spheroid. The equatorial diameter of the earth is 7,926 miles while the polar diameter is about 7,900 miles. The World Almanac notes that this discrepancy is caused by the earth's rotation which forces more of the earth's substance into the equatorial region than the polar regions.

A conservative view

Begone, pigeonhole politics!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Thousands of college seniors will take their degrees next month in "political science." Thus certifying their mastery of a contradiction in terms. Politics is an art, not a science, as George McGovern belatedly recognized last week.

Kilpatrick

The senator from South Dakota, it will be recalled, once was a full-time professor in this arcane field. He was a prime mover in the effort, a couple of years ago, to bring scientism to the Democratic party. This was, in its way, like asking the Rolling Stones to play Chopin, but the professor is a dauntless man.

As a result of his labors, last year's Democratic National Convention was a marvel to behold. Veterans in the press gallery were struck dumb. We had seen nothing like it under sun or moon. The new rules had produced a highly computerized convention, in which the delegations were divided by dozens of decimal points, but where were the old pols? The old pols, it appeared, had not been invited.

The Democratic National Committee fed us with fact sheets. Of the 3,194 elected delegates, 1,275, or 39.9 per cent, were women. Another 688, or 21.5 per cent, were youths. Still another 488, or 15.2 per cent, were black. The rolls also numbered 142 Latinos, 27 Indians, 12 Orientals and 2 Eskimos, whose percentages, respectively, were 4.44, 0.845, 0.375, and 0.062. The fact sheets failed to classify the remaining 560 delegates, who presumably were old males not otherwise attached.

We stared at these statistics in alarm, wondering whether a young Indian girl had been counted once, twice or three times, and we sighed at the symmetrical perfection of the egg carton from New York — 142 males and 136 females, the whole numbers being further subdivided into 70 youths, 35 blacks, 17 Latinos, 1 Indian, and 1 Ms., name of Abzug.

The underlying theory, of course, was that the state delegations should reflect the state populations. The theory was half-baked. It provided no pigeonholes labeled Jew, Catholic, Protestant, farmer, veteran, Polish, Italian, student, housewife, homosexual, or union man. The reformers, pleading the necessity to take one step at a time, promised in the platform to do better next time.

Not so. At last week's meeting of the Democratic Charter Commission, Professor McGovern manfully confessed error. He recommended that language be deleted that had created the quota system for women and young people. "I believe," he said, "that delegates should represent people, not types of people."

This is precisely what critics of the new rule were saying last summer. The quota system was not an affirmation of democracy, but a positive denial of democracy. The scheme converted flesh-and-blood people to mere punchcards, not to be mutilated, folded or spindled. It made the computer king.

The plan, for all its pretty percentage marks, did not provide demonstrably better representation. The Illinois contingent that finally was seated was a triumph of political science; the delegation came from the reformers' laundromat free of soil or stain, smelling of soap and starch, but it gave no account to the Hon. Richard Daley, mayor of Chicago. In November, as one consequence, Cook County went for Nixon by nearly a quarter of a million votes.

McGovern would correct that situation also. He told the Charter Commission that new guidelines should assure that "senior party leaders" are promised a place at future conventions. Organizations that rub independent slates, such as Daley's in Chicago, should be permitted to put together their delegations as they please.

The professor's proposals brought a howl from Ms. Abzug, who saw them as a "serious" setback to the role of women in the party. His recommendations will please others — notably Jews and old pols. Jews despise quotas and old pols dearly love the limelight. By thus concentrating on politics and forgetting political science, party leaders may regain some lost ground. And as McGovern knows better than most men, a party that in November lost 49 of the 50 states has a lot of lost ground to regain.

Ambassadorships increasing in their cost

WASHINGTON — As everyone knows, the best way to become a U.S. ambassador is to contribute a large sum of money to the presidential election campaign — and have your candidate win.

Buchwald

This election was no different from elections past except that the prices of ambassadorships have gone up. Luxembourg, for example, never went for more than $50,000. But this year it was given to Mrs. Ruth Farkas of Alexander's Department Store, who made a $300,000 contribution to President Nixon's campaign.

Countries throughout the world are very sensitive to the prices put on U.S. diplomatic posts and now consider it a matter of prestige if they get a U.S. ambassador who has made an enormous contribution to the Republican Party.

It was for this reason that the foreign minister of Zemelulu called on an undersecretary of state here the other day.

"I understand you are sending us an ambassador who contributed only $50,000 to President Nixon's campaign. I want you to know my government considers this an insult. We deserve at least a $100,000 contributor."

The undersecretary replied, "Money isn't everything, Mr. Foreign Minister. The man we are sending you has excellent business qualifications and strong connections in the White House. He is held in high esteem by the President despite his paltry contribution."

"That is all well and good, Mr. Secretary, but I have it on highest authority that you are appointing an ambassador to Tonkidash who contributed $100,000. Why has the price on our American ambassador been so deflated?"

"Zemelulu is in the malaria belt, and the climate is hot and sticky, Mr. Foreign Minister. We tried to get you a $100,000 contributor but nobody wanted to go to your country. We were very fortunate to find you a $50,000 donor who didn't know where Zemelulu was. We were so desperate we were considering sending you a professional diplomat."

"We would have refused him," the foreign minister said. "My government still does not understand how you can send a $300,000 donor to Luxembourg and a $50,000 one to us. Our country is five times the size of Luxembourg."

"You must understand, Mr. Foreign Minister, that size has nothing to do with our ambassadorial assignments. It is a question of geography. The big donors are partial to Europe and the Caribbean. When you give the kind of money they do, you can't expect them to take a hardship post."

"We still consider a $50,000 contributor unacceptable to us, particularly when the dollar has been devalued twice. We insist you find someone who gave at least $75,000 to President Nixon's victory."

"Mr. Foreign Minister, may I tell you something in utmost confidence?" the undersecretary said.

Here is a hand which Rixi Markus played at a mere six hearts. Played six hearts which made easily is clearly the correct contract and Rixi is entirely correct when she blames her partner for failure to reach the grand slam.

Rixi feels that her partner could well have afforded to use Blackwood and then place the contract in the grand slam, but she also suggests something that we believe is one of the most important features of correct bidding opposite a strong hand.

She points out that North should have responded three hearts, not two spades. The chance that spades would become the final contract was very small; the chance that the spade bid would misinform partner was tremendous.

Now look how simple the bidding would be after the immediate heart raise. South could bid four clubs but there would be little need for wasting any time.

South's hand would be perfect for a five no-trump grand slam force. This expert bid invented 40 years ago by Ely Culbertson asks partner to bid seven with two of the three top trump honors. North has them and would bid it.

Record Chopped to 3-9

Mixed Reactions Surround OU Forfeitures

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Disappointment, disbelief and some bitterness—those were some of the reactions expressed Wednesday by Oklahoma Sooners football players after learning the university was forfeiting nine of last season's games because of recruiting irregularities.

The action leaves the Sooners with a 3-9 record, wipes out a Sugar Bowl victory over Penn State, as well as the Big Eight championship.

The players seemed most disappointed, however, by the loss of Kerry Jackson, who was to have been the Sooners No. 1 quarterback before it was learned his high school transcript had been tampered with and he was declared ineligible. He also stayed two times in the OU dormitory while in high school, in violation of league rules.

Also ruled ineligible for the same reasons was Mike Phillips, a teammate of Jackson's at Galveston, Tex., Ball High School. Neither was said to have any knowledge of violations, but university officials said offensive line coach Bill Michael has admitted knowing of the transcript tampering.

Oklahoma Athletic Director Wade Walker revealed Wednesday that Michael had resigned. Both Walker and coach Barry Switzer said no other football staff member was aware of the infraction of Big Eight regulations. Jackson, asked for a comment, shrugged and said, "I don't have anything to say. I'm kind of disappointed. That's about all I could say."

Jackson said he did not know about the tampering and stressed that he intended to remain at Oklahoma, where he would be eligible to play again in 1974.

Coach Switzer was the one that had to inform Jackson of the development Tuesday in an hour-long session. "I tried to be positive about it and explain that those people changed the transcript because they thought they were trying to help him," he said.

"He just sat there and he didn't say a thing. Then I told him coach Michael had resigned and he sat there and cried," Switzer added.

Under conference rules neither Jackson nor Phillips is permitted to receive scholarship aid next year, but Walker said that aspect would be appealed to Big Eight faculty representatives in May.

Cards Plight Continues; Pirates Notch 8-2 Romp

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Powerful Willie Stargell is off on an early tear for the Pittsburgh Pirates and sees only the strain of artificial grass on his tender knees as a problem.

The 32-year-old Stargell, reassigned by Manager Bill Virdon to patrol left field, Wednesday night pounded his third home run and singled to mesmerize the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-2.

Stargell's hits, good for four RBI, raised his batting average to .364 as the Pirates continued their fast national league start with a 7-1 record.

"I feel real good," said the 225-pound Stargell, who has a history of aching knees. "The only question is health. Psychologically your mind can be your best friend or your worst enemy."

A year ago Stargell played 101 games at first base in deference to his knees, but he returned to the outfield so Bob Robertson could play in the infield.

"There's no question I'm going to do it," he said in respect to occupying the more strenuous of the two positions. "With the talent we have on this club there's always somebody to jump in there to take your place."

"I think I can play the whole year out there," he ventured. Expressing distrust for the hard surface of imitation grass, he added, however, "The only thing that's even hurt me is AstroTurf."

Stargell, displaying the swing that terrorizes opposing pitchers, wasted no time demoralizing Cardinals starter Rick Wise, 1-1, who opened by walking Dave Cash.

Al Oliver's first of four hits came one out later and Stargell got all his weight into the next pitch, a delivery he socked 350 feet on a high arc over the right field fence.

Milt May, who collected three RBI, also drove in a first-inning run to make it 4-0 Pittsburgh and Stargell and the young Pirates catcher combined for a three-run eighth inning.

That put Pittsburgh ahead, 7-0, and two runs by the Cardinals in the bottom of the eighth and the final Pirate counter in the ninth were of no consequence.

The Pirates' Virdon labeled Stargell's start "close" to a midseason groove and the slugging star, asked if he concurred, replied "I like to think so."

"Players playing every day like to have a rhythm you can only get that way," he said in self-appraisal. "Once we start playing every day it should tell more."

Dick Trickle Heads Field For Reslated I-70 Race

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ODESSA — Dick Trickle, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., the nation's winningest stock car driver in 1972 with 67 victories, will head the field for the rescheduled Springtime 200 at I-70 Speedway here Friday and Saturday.

Rain last weekend forced postponement of the two-day event; it's slated to open with time trials Friday at 7 p.m. Before rain forced a halt to the program last week, about half of the 43-car field had timed in. None of last week's times will be used.

Trickle will be after his fifth straight I-70 win; he's never lost a race he's competed in here.

Sharing top billing with Trickle is David Goldsberry, Springfield. Goldsberry won two 100-lap races last season at I-70.

In addition to Friday's time trials, qualifying races will also be held.

A 20-lap consolation race will precede the 200-lap feature on Saturday; gates will open at 5 p.m. both nights. Saturday's program also gets underway at 7 p.m.

Two-thousand dollars of the $12,000 total purse will be guaranteed to the winner of the main event.

Pitching, Long Ball Too Much for SFCC

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HICKMAN MILLS, Mo. — Longview Community College combined sharp pitching with the long ball here Wednesday afternoon to sweep a junior college doubleheader from the State Fair Community College Roadrunners, 8-1 and 5-1.

Slugs' hurlers Rick Malchow and Bob Knitten combined for 28 strikeouts (14 each), while Chris Cox, Jeff Dorsey and Ron Riding supplied the power.

Malchow mowed down the side on strikes in the first and fourth on his way to a four-hitter in the opener, which Longview captured 8-1.

State Fair jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the fourth, but it was short-lived as the Slugs roared back with five of their own in the fifth, when 10 men paraded to the plate. The biggest blow in the inning came with two out, when Riding mashed a triple into right field, driving in the third and fourth runs. On the play, Riding scored, when the relay throw from second baseman Derrick Crank was wild and wound up in the dug out.

Starting pitcher Bob Pledge, who was charged with the loss, got David Rinzel and Harry Tipton on strikes to open the fifth, but walked two, hit one and gave up a single and Riding's triple before being replaced by sophomore right-hander Randy Kidwell.

Cox blasted a three-run homer in the sixth to salt the game away.

The nightcap was a virtual replay of the opener, as SFCC went ahead 1-0 in the third, when Crank scored on Mitch Silvers' triple. Crank reached second safely, when right fielder Mike Stovall dropped a fly for a two-base error. Jerry Reed sacrificed him to third.

In the home half of the fourth, however, a four-run outburst, highlighted by Dorsey's solo homer, put the Slugs in front, 4-1. Riding followed with a bases-empty shot for the final tally in the fifth.

Dan Madole was the losing pitcher.

The two losses leave the Roadrunners with a 6-5 season's slate. They won't see action again until May 1, when a six-game northern road trip opens at Iowa Western College.

S-C, Lee's Summit Battle to 5-5 Tie

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LEE'S SUMMIT — Smith-Cotton, which at the last minute decided to move the S-C, Lee's Summit game from Liberty Park to Lee's Summit, toiled for nine innings here Wednesday afternoon and came up with nothing to show in the victory column.

However, it wasn't as bad as one may think, since they didn't get charged with a loss.

Ties are rare in baseball, but that's what it was. The game was called at the end of nine innings due to darkness, with the score tied at 5-5.

The Tigers performed well offensively, pounding out 11 hits.

Don Vinson rapped out a single and double, and drove in two of the Bengals' runs. Pete Kostopolus was three-for-four, while Jim Sanders had a pair of singles in four trips.

Jim Vansell got the starting call; he went four innings and yielded two runs on three hits. He was replaced in the fifth by Greg Bechtel, who gave up the other three runs. Lee's Summit tagged Bechtel for four hits.

Paul Kostopolus, who was expected to get one of the starting nods in Thursday's Central Missouri Conference doubleheader in Hannibal, worked the final two frames and pitched hitless ball.

Lee's Summit, which finished as the Missouri State High School Activities Association's runner-up to champion St. Louis Lafayette in 1972, used three pitchers — Bill Demarantville, Jack Heimsath and Will Baker.

New York Knicks Knot NBA Eastern Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knicks gave the Boston Celtics some of their own medicine. In fact, it was an overdose, but not fatal.

"We were so out of it, it was pathetic," said Coach Tom Heinsohn after his lethargic Celtics were lashed 129-96 by the Knicks Wednesday night.

The worst defeat in Boston's playoff history—the 33-point margin exceeding by nine their two previous record losses—came just three days after the Celtics whipped the New Yorkers 134-108 in the opener of the National Basketball Association Eastern Conference final.

"We played a super game last time," said Heinsohn, the NBA Coach of the Year. "They played a super game this time and we didn't play any kind of game at all."

So overwhelming was the defeat, behind the 24 points of Walt Frazier, that the Knicks cleared their bench midway through the final quarter.

Knicks Coach Red Holzman, when asked if he thought the trend was changing from squeakers to run-aways, he replied:

"God, I hope not. I can't stand this. To have what happened in Boston Sunday night and here tonight, you realize you really do play one game at a time."

Carolina Coach Larry Brown and Utah Coach LaDell Andersen could have used a little of the Knicks cushion in their American Basketball playoffs.

The Cougars sneaked past the Kentucky Colonels 102-91 in the East but the Stars barely nipped the Indiana Pacers 104-103 in the West to even both best-of-seven division finals at 2-2.

Jimmy Jones pumped in 34 points and Willie Wise hit a key basket with 58 seconds left for the Utah triumph while Billy Cunningham tallied 32 for Carolina.

"These have been a great, hard-fought four games and now we are starting all over again," said Andersen. "We just won one on their floor and they are going to come out and try to do the same thing to us."

In the NBA West, Golden State says it has a remedy for the Los Angeles Lakers' Jim McMillan tonight.

"We've made adjustments," Warriors' Coach Bill Attles said of possible potions for McMillan, who poured in 37 points for the defending champion Lakers in their 101-99 triumph over the Warriors in Tuesday night's first game.

S-C Freshman Thinclads Down Jeff City

The Smith-Cotton freshmen gained their first dual victory of the season on the Jennie Daynes Stadium track Wednesday, downing Jefferson City, 64-45.

Victor Dabney and Charles Braden were both double winners for the Tigers. Braden captured both hurdle events, claiming the 120 lows in :15.8 and the 70 highs in :11.4. Dabney broke the tape in the 220 in :25.6 seconds and placed first in the long jump with a 17-7 mark.

Other first place winners for the Tigers were Rick Holman in the 880 with a 2:18.9 clocking; Tony Dabney with a :56.5 win in the 440; Mike Riley in the shot put with a 48½ toss; Doug Slagel with a 5-4 effort in the high jump.

Smith-Cotton also won both relays with a :50.0 clocking in the 440 Victor and Tony Dabney, Jeff Siegel and Rodney Cline carrying the baton; and in the 880 where Victor Dabney, Slagel, Braden and Trautman turned in a 1:43.6 time.

In eighth grade action, the Tigers were downed by the young Jays, 61-49. The Tigers did capture five firsts in the meet, which was their first loss against two wins this season. Lazoner Washington captured the 80 yard dash in :09.3; Sedalia's 440 relay crew turned in a :49.0 clocking in that event. Jeff Schwerner capped the 100 lows in :13.1, Bruce Kerr took the long jump with a 17-8½ effort, and Marty Breeze flipped the discus 117-2 to win that event.

The freshmen and eighth graders will host meets Wednesday and Thursday with Marshall and Warrensburg, respectively.

In Hero Role Again

Tenace HR Trips Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gene Tenace, the 1972 World Series hero, strode from the bench in the ninth inning with only one thing on his mind.

"I was thinking home run all the way to the plate," the Oakland A's first baseman said. "Fortunately, I got it."

Tenace's blast with Reggie Jackson, who hit a leadoff single, aboard lifted the A's to a 7-6 American League baseball victory over the Kansas City Royals Wednesday night.

"I've been swinging the bat good the last three or four ball games," said Tenace. "We got a great ball club. We've got guys on the bench who can come in and do the same thing."

The A's, struggling in fifth place in the AL West, now are four games behind the first-place Royals.

"Something like this can turn our game around for us," Tenace said.

Tenace's home run, his third of the campaign, came off of Bruce Dal Canton, 0-1, and gave Horacio Pina his first de-

The Clincher

Oakland's Gene Tenace (38) and Reggie Jackson (9) are greeted in the dug out by their teammates after Tenace blasted a one-out, two-run homer in the top of the ninth inning that ended the Kansas City Royals' winning streak at four games, Wednesday in Kansas City. The Royals, who were only two outs away from a 6-5 win, couldn't muster any offense in the bottom of the ninth and lost, 7-6. (UPI)

Postpone NBA Draft Again

Brisker Will Stay at Seattle

NEW YORK (AP) — The John Brisker affair is settled, with the struggling Philadelphia 76ers getting some much-needed draft choices and Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, getting the backing of his Board of Governors.

The Brisker matter involving Philadelphia and Seattle was settled Wednesday night following a nine-hour meeting, which because of its length caused the second postponement of the NBA's college draft.

The draft originally was set for last Monday, then today and now will be held next Tuesday.

The American Basketball Association, which says it wants to draft after the NBA does, is still scheduled officially to have its selection session on Friday, but is expected to change the date today. The ABA draft first was set for last Tuesday.

When the NBA draft is held, Philadelphia, which had the worst record in the league this past season, will not only have the first pick of the first round but also will have a bonus pick which will be made after the 17 regular first-round selections.

The board also ruled that the signing of Brisker will cost Seattle $10,000 and its second-round choices in the draft this year and in the 1974 draft, which will go to Philadelphia.

The special session of the 17-member board took place after

Oklahoma State Without Golf Ace

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma State will enter the Great Plains Tournament in Wichita, Kan., Thursday and Friday without the services of its top golfer.

Oklahoma State team physician Dr. Donald Cooper's tentative diagnosis Wednesday on Ted Goin's ailing left shoulder was bursitis and he expects the Seminole, Okla., senior to be sidelined "at least a week."

Cowboy coach Labron Harris Sr., shuffled his lineup for the Wichita tournament to include seniors Danny Edwards, Chris Cole and Henry DeLozier, junior Don Bliss and freshman Kirk Goss. Jim Brownfield and Danny Tewell will be unattached entries at Wichita.

Men's Softball Meeting Monday

A men's softball meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Sedalia Park Board Office in Convention Hall.

The meeting will be for all managers and coaches of area softball teams. Scheduling, playing sites, and league information are on the agenda.

Robert A. Linsenhardt, one of the city softball co-ordinators, will be in charge of the meeting.

AP Names McAdoo Rookie-of-Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob McAdoo of the Buffalo Braves was named today as the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year for the 1972-3 season by a landslide vote.

The 6-foot-10 McAdoo, who played college ball for the University of North Carolina, got off to a slow start with Buffalo, but after adjusting to the pro game, blossomed out as a top scorer in the second half of the season.

He scored 39, 39 and 45 points in his last three games of the season, finishing with an 18-point per game average and 9.2 rebounds per game in addition to blocking 216 shots. During his last 51 games, he shot 48 per cent from the floor and averaged 22.8 points per game and 10.8 rebounds.

In the voting by sportswriters and sportscasters in the 17 NBA cities, McAdoo received 12,840 of a possible 17 votes. Lloyd Neal of Portland was second with 3,728. Then came Chris Ford of Detroit with 0.167, Jim Price of Los Angeles with 0.143 and Bud Stallworth of Seattle with 0.125.

"I had my troubles adjusting," said McAdoo. "I had never guarded small, quick forwards like John Havlicek, Bill Bradley and Lou Hudson. I was confident I could be an NBA center, but had to get used to being a 6-10 forward."

cision of the season. Pina retired all 13 batters he faced in relief of starter Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

"A lot of people thought there would be a lot of pressure on me as a result of the World Series," Tenace said. "There's always pressure on players. If I'm out there playing scared, there'd be a lot of pressure on me. I'm not built that way."

"I feel I can play up here, and I just have to accept whatever pressure there is."

A's Manager Dick Williams said Tenace has "always had the good stroke. He batted over .300 in 1970 but he wasn't up there much because we couldn't find a place for him."

"Now we have a place for him. Maybe this will shake us loose now."

The A's, jumping on Dick Drago, gave Hunter a four-run lead in the second inning on five singles and a walk. Joe Rudi's single was the big blow, driving in two tallies.

Kansas City bounced back with three runs in the last of the frame on a home run by Ed Kirkpatrick following walks to John Mayberry and Lou Piniella. Cookie Rojas got the Royals even with a home run in the third.

The Royals scored two unearned runs in the fifth, the key blow a double by Rojas that trickled off the fingertips of Jackson.

"It wasn't a double," Jackson said. "I didn't have possession of it but it should have been caught. It was an error all the way."

'Investigation Absurd'

Harness Drivers Association President Del Insko calls the Superfecta betting investigation "absurd" during a press conference in New York City, Wednesday. Insko was one of eight drivers subpoenaed Tuesday at Roosevelt Raceway to appear for questioning by Nassau County District Attorney William Cahn. (UPI)

MONEY Tournament Opens in California

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Lee Trevino's got a pain in the neck.

"It's right up here," he said, massaging under his left ear. "It's a tendon that's pulled. I've seen the doctor about it and he's given me some heat treatments. I don't know how it will affect me."

"I'll just have to try it and see."

"I've always thought this was one of the most important tournaments in the world, maybe No. 4," Trevino said before teeing off in today's first round of the prestigious MONY Tournament of Champions. "It's something I've always wanted to win."

"Any tournament is important, but to win one that includes the champions of all the others, now that'd really be something to do."

He's never accomplished that goal, but finished second and third the last two years and is listed as the second choice to favored Jack Nicklaus in the 31-man field that is competing for a total purse of $200,000.

First prize is $40,000. Should Trevino win it, he would be well past another of his major career goals.

"I want to win $1 million in prize money faster than anyone else has ever done it," he said. "It took Jack 10 years. I'm going to do it in 6½. Of course, with the way purses are growing all the time, somebody will come along and break that record, but it'd sure give them something to shoot at."

Only Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper have passed the $1 million mark in career earnings. But Trevino has in excess of $900,000 and it's just a matter of time before he officially becomes the game's fourth millionaire.

Curry, Viebrock Top Ladies Field

Mary Curry and Jeanette Viebrock placed first in the A and B-flights respectively Wednesday, as the 1973 Walnut Hills Country Club ladies golf season opened.

Entrants were allowed to use their two favorite clubs and their putters.

The next ladies event at WHCC is scheduled for April 25.

Ex-Missouri Coach Vanatta To ORU
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oral Roberts University has named Bob Vanatta, Delta State College basketball coach, as assistant athletic director, it was announced Wednesday.

Athletic director and head basketball coach Ken Trickey said Vanatta would handle most of the athletic department's administrative work.

Vanatta's record last season at the Cleveland, Miss., college was 12-13 with the final six games all wins.

Vanatta took Bradley and Memphis State University to the NIT and NCAA tournaments and also coached at West Point and Missouri.

Ex-con Flaunted Tradition

By LES SCHLANGEN
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ten years ago, John Scott Ulm walked out of the Colorado State Reformatory at Buena Vista and flaunted tradition. "I broke an old rule which says if you look back you'll go back," Ulm recalls. "But I looked back at the place and vowed I would never go back." He had $15 in his pocket and a train ticket to his home in Independence, Kan. Today, the 30-year-old Democrat from Tucson is serving his first term as an Arizona state senator. An outspoken legislator, Ulm fought unsuccessfully against Senate passage of a bill to restore capital punishment, describing it as "a move to return to barbarism." But he says he has no special grievance against law and order legislation. "The same laws that got me into trouble also protect me, but I'm not willing to hand over all power to the police," he said during an interview on Monday.

Ulm said he was forced into marriage at the age of 18 while still a senior in high school at Independence and had to combine his studies with a job to support his family. Ulm went on to the University of Kansas, but the marriage broke up by the time he finished his sophomore year. He moved to Greeley, Colo., and ran afoul of the law there while working as a disc jockey, Ulm said. "During that period of emotional pressures I wrote checks that bounced and then wrote more to cover them," he said. Sentenced to a term of 1-20 years, he was released after serving nine months. Unable to find a job in Independence, he moved to Topeka. Ulm met his second wife, Jeanette, there while attending night classes at Washburn University. They moved on to Tucson and now have a son, Mark, 5, and a daughter, Leslie, 4. Urged by friends last year to run for the senate, Ulm asked for a Colorado pardon. It was granted before he ran and he won with 70 per cent of the vote. He said his past was raised only once during the campaign, during an interview in the staunchly Republican Sierra Vista area. "I gave 'em the full story," Ulm said. "I carried Sierra Vista by 800 votes."
